CREATE YOUR OWN FLIP-O-RAMA®

Everyone flips over Dav Pilkey’s Flip-O-Ramas®. George and Harold, the creators of Captain Underpants and Dog Man, show you how it’s done. Using one piece of 8½ x 11 paper, follow these instructions to make your own!

1. Start by holding the paper like this... And get ready to make the world's easiest Flip-O-Rama!

2. It's a stick guy with a basketball. Easy huh?

3. Now fold the top half of your paper over the picture you've just drawn.

4. If you can't see your drawing underneath the top sheet of paper, just hold it up to a sunny window. Cool!

5. Because most paper is a little transparent, you should still kinda be able to see your drawing underneath.

6. Now we're going to do some tracing on the top page. The 1st rule is: If you don't want something to move, trace it!!!

7. Harold has just shown the 2nd rule of Flip-O-Ramas: If you want something to move, you must re-draw it in a new position.

8. But his left arm is dribbling the ball, so it should probably move a little, huh? Yes!

9. So I'll re-draw his left arm in a new position!

10. And since he's dribbling the ball on the floor, I'll re-draw the ball down on the floor.

11. You might need some adjustments to make it work better.

12. Now flip the top page up and down to try it out.

13. Note: When flipping your homemade Flip-O-Rama, only flip the top page. Also, make sure that you can see both pictures as you flip.

15. Like any great ant, Flip-O-Rama takes lots of practice.

16. But the more you practice, the better you'll get!
